About the Workshop

Ruhr Labour Day will take place on March 23, 2026 at the RWI - Leibniz Institute for Economic Research in Essen.

The workshop brings together labour market researchers from the Ruhr area and beyond to foster exchange and collaboration.

We welcome submissions on a broad range of topics in labour economics, both empirical and theoretical. Each accepted paper will be assigned a discussant who will provide detailed discussions and feedback.

A networking event will follow the workshop. We warmly invite all interested researchers to attend, regardless of paper submission or selection.

Contact

Please contact the organizers for any questions regarding the workshop.
